Today I arise with thoughts of you, so many days and nights has past me by. You just don't know how much you are missed. There are times when you are felt in the presence. It maybe only in my head that I feel this way but as long as it keeps me from feeling sadder then I need to feel. I often wish and pray that this would be a long wild crazy dream that I'll wake up to and thank GOD after seeing your face. That this would be a life changer for us all. I MISS AND LOVE YOU SO. May our LORD, JESUS give you peace and comfort on this journey.

It has been two years ago today and I still miss you. I sometime think that it is all a bad dream and that I'll wake from it soon. As I stated before, communication, I just want to hear from you again, we all know that is impossible at this moment. When FATHER is ready for us to communicate again, it will be so joyous. I pray for you all the time. I pictured us in our 80's going out to lunch and fussing over what to eat. LOVE always your big sister. Cynthia

You were so right about our family not communicating with one another unless they are in need of something from the other. I just sat back to see how long it would take before I would actually hear from some of them just to check on one to say hello. Time and blessings will tell us. I know we had some rough times together but nothing like what is going on with the ones that are still here at least you and I talked. I hope you will forgive them all for what they are still doing. We have talked so much about this issue over and over again with no luck. I miss having you to talk to from day to day.

For some moments in life there are no words. I was deeply saddened to hear of Jeanette's passing. My thoughts are with you. Claudia Washington & Family...To the Rogers Family...Weep not, weep not, She is not dead; She's resting in the bosom of Jesus.Heart-broken mother--weep no more; Grief-stricken sons--weep no more; Left-lonesome sisters and daughters --weep no more; She only just gone home.Day before yesterday morning, God was looking down from his great, high heaven, Looking down on all his children, And his eye fell on Sister Jeanette, Tossing on her bed of pain.And God's big heart was touched with pity, With the everlasting pity.And God sat back on his throne, And he commanded that tall, bright angel standing at his right hand: Call me Death!And that tall, bright angel cried in a voiceThat broke like a clap of thunder: Call Death!--Call Death!And the echo sounded down the streets of heavenTill it reached away back to that shadowy place, Where Death waits with his pale, white horses.And Death heard the summons, And he leaped on his fastest horse, Pale as a sheet in the moonlight.Up the golden street Death galloped, And the hooves of his horses struck fire from the gold, But they didn't make no sound.Up Death rode to the Great White Throne, And waited for God's command.And God said: Go down, Death, go down, Go down to Virginia,Down in Arlington, And find Sister Jeanette.She's borne the burden and heat of the day,She's labored long in my vineyard,And she's tired--She's weary--Go down, Death, and bring her to me.And Death didn't say a word,But he loosed the reins on his pale, white horse,And he clamped the spurs to his bloodless sides,And out and down he rode,Through heaven's pearly gates,Past suns and moons and stars;on Death rode,Leaving the lightning's flash behind;Straight down he came.While we were watching round her bed, She turned her eyes and looked away, She saw what we couldn't see; She saw Old Death. She saw Old DeathComing like a falling star.But Death didn't frighten Sister Jeanette; He looked to her like a welcome friend.And she whispered to us: I'm going home, And she smiled and closed her eyes.And Death took her up like a baby, And she lay in his icy arms, But she didn't feel no chill.And death began to ride again--Up beyond the evening star, Into the glittering light of glory, On to the Great White Throne.And there he laid Sister JeanetteOn the loving breast of Jesus.And Jesus took his own hand and wiped away her tears, And he smoothed the furrows from her face, And the angels sang a little song, And Jesus rocked her in his arms, And kept a-saying: Take your rest, Take your rest.Weep not--weep not, She is not dead; She's resting in the bosom of Jesus.

I am so very sorry for your loss. How we long for the fulfillment of God's promises- when 'the last enemy, death is brought to nothing', and when death is 'swallowed up forever' (1 Corinthians 15:26; Isaiah 25:8)! And when those impotent in death are restored to life again (John 5:25, 26, 28, and 29)! Meanwhile, may Jehovah God give each of you peace of mind and heart, as well as comfort and strengthen you during this most difficult time. You have my deepest sympathy.

You were part of a gift that was shared with me. While I did not get to express my true fondness for you for as long as I would have wished to, I can only leave this message as a statement of what you have meant to me and all of those whose lives you have touched. Although you were not bourn to me you truly were my own, I've seen you in your younger years and in my heart you've grown. You may no longer be with us and for that I am not whole, Still you always will be part of me in my heart, my mind, my soul. I sought to find some comfort in our last days spent... so few, And I found it when you looked at me and I saw the love in you. I will always love you as my own.

MISS ME - BUT LET ME GO
When I come to the end of the road
And the sun has set for me
I want no rites in a gloom-filled room.
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little--but not too long
And not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss me--but let me go.
For this is a journey that we all must take
And each must go alone.
It's all a part of the Master's plan
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick of heart
Go to the friends we know
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds.

grief;
We have to cry, to mourn our loss,
Before we get relief.
We know we'll reconnect with her
At
the end of each life's road;
