All day long I've thought about what to post. Whoever came up with the adage that time heals all wounds must have never been wounded, or at least not deeply. It's been 3 years and I miss you more now than ever. My only hope rests in the promise from our Lord that we are only separated temporarily. In an instant you were physically gone, but I promise you that you are not forgotten.

To the family of Joyce Herriot:I was truly in shock when I heard the news of her passing. I was a substitute teacher at Hugh Mercer for the last 3 years and enjoyed all the classrooms that I shared with Joyce. She was a beautiful lady, both inside and out. Joyce was a hard worker and a very caring soul. She talked about you Jennifer all the time and how proud she was of you. She was an angel among us in life. Just know now that she is an angel in heaven looking down on all of us. She will never be forgotten for her larger than life smile and friendly well being. We will miss her very much! S. O Wynn lit a candle in honor of Joyce.

There are no words to truly express the feelings of so many people nor what Joyce truly meant to so many of us. To some she was known for her M&Ms, her treats and smile but to me she was known for all of the above. Joyce was my fingernail buddy we would always show nails to see who had the longest nails. We were together a few weeks ago and yes she won, she displayed her one and a half inch long nails that she had even taken a picture of beside a ruler. She told me "this has been life long dream to get them this long". To some if they had the world, universe and stars their life long dream still would be just that, a life long dream. It was the simple things that complete life for Joyce, her church, a hug, a smile, a laugh and being a friend and mom. "Friend thanks for sharing your life with me I am going to miss the many laughs that we shared. Sibyl and The Wynn Family
