Regardless of the reason we share this day, this day will always be one that it is bitter sweet. This is the day that we celebrate both of our lives for different reasons - my reason being my birthday and yours being the day we lost you - either way it is a celebration of life. You are missed by many, including myself. I will never forget the times we would gather in your living room, you in your chair, the rest of us on couches and the floor making you watch The OC...you never quite understood why we were all so obsessed with that show, but you rolled with it. I hear memories of you often from the "Hood Bros" about your derby days and think about you often. You are deeply missed and dearly loved by so many and I am honored to share this day with such an amazing man!Arika

A Year, Seems like forever, seems like yesterday. I finally got out of running home because I had to be here for you. Now I run home for the comfort of the memory of you. I still have your cloths in the closet, dresser the same, pictures we hung for you still on the wall. 62 in the Garage. Rocker still on the porch. House still white though I've thought about painting it back to Yellow. Jenny says you can't get me for that now. LOL. I still feel the pain of losing you. But I take great pride in the fact I was able to keep you here at home. Don't cry as much as I used to. Feel your presence sometimes so I know your here. Sleep in the room where you passed. Conforts me. As much as I wish I could have you back I know it was up to God not me. God allowed us to do all we could here on earth. I think he gave us all he could of you than took you home. He was so kind to allow us the time we had together. I will always miss you Bud but as hard as it all is I Thank God for what I had with you and the wonderful family we created and shared. Missing Bud today especially, Cindy

How much greater can life be for us when we hear all the tributes to Bud. I don't know how I will ever get over loosing him and my heart goes out to Cindy & the kids. we all love each other and are a very close knit family and we will help each ouher through this. While Bud is helping Jesus, Mom & daddy make room for us, we just need to stick together and go on. I thank god for all the special time bud & I spent together, wheather it was when he gave me a job or when he let me share his love for the deomlition derbies and let me be a part of his life in something he loved dearly. I know he loved Cindy anf his kids more than life itself, we talked about it often and how much he admired her. love like that doesn't come by often. He loved his friends too. He managed to be equal with his feelings which made him very unique and respected. I am proud to call him brother and miss him more than anyone will ever know. Speaking for myself, Marty & brandon, See ya Later, Louie

Cindy, Nikki, Jenny, Amanda, BJ, Tweet and the rest of the clan. Bud was such a sweet man - your family has always been very welcoming - and he always had a smile and a laugh. I used to laugh at Nikki's stories of him messing with people in online karaoke by playing the actual artists and pretending that he was the one singing :) Love and Hugs - Karen D.

One of my best memories of Bud will always be how happy he was as a man. Bud and i had some good times together both at work and at play going to the races and goofing around. Bud and I went to races at Pocono, Bristol, Charlotte, Dover and Daytona. At Daytona we saw Dale Sr. win the 500, man what day that was. That being said, the best times and memories i will keep of Bud were all the times we talked about our families with each other. We always shared that with each other and it was usually a funny situation that happened with out kids or our wives. We always were able to give each other a good laugh and also laugh at ourselves when the occasion called for it. Bud loved Cindy and his kids so much and that was always obvious to me. Bud was a good hearted honest man that i will always remember and respect. Quite simply if he was your friend their was nothing he wouldnt do for you. Bud was the best.I always remember you good Buddy.Your Good FriendEd Peters
