I was Aron's babysitter way back when (when he was about 5). I'll never forget the day he set his eyelashes on fire!! Then on another occasion, he fell asleep under his bed and I couldn't find him anywhere!!! Aron sweetie, this is such a shock for me. I know it's been like half a century but I'll always remember you as the sweet little 5 year old bot I knew back then. May God Rest your soul in eternal Peace sweet darling boy. Monica, Elana and Ben, my deepest condolences. With love, Nakasi.

I remember we met about two years ago in the first part of the program, and we became homeboys right off. And man did we go through a lot together. So many mental and physical obstacles that were set before us....but we overcame them all. Survivors as we called it! After graduation last year, we really didn't keep in contact as much as we thought our friendship would have called for. But as men, we both were ambitious and did exactly what we set out to do...exactly what we planned...to achieve the "American Dream"...Our "American Dream"...In our own reality. No one else would understand that kind of contentment. Still can't believe your gone bro....You'll truly be missed. Forever in peace my brother.K.Jack
