I knew Matt in high school and remember his mischevious smile (he was always up to something). One particular memory tho, showed a different side of Matt. I witnessed him take the blame for something he didn't do. When I approached him to let him know that I would inform the teacher what had really happened, he asked me not to. I stated it wasn't right for him to get into trouble for something he didn't do. He stated "sometimes the wrong thing IS the right thing to do". I asked if he was concerned about getting into trouble and he stated "I can handle it". I later found out that the boy he "covered for" had a father with a terrible temper and a fast hand for discipline. How appropriate is the nickname "Big Teddy"?Mr. and Mrs. Peters & Josh, I am praying for you and the rest of your family. Josh, I saw Matt a year or two ago and asked him about you (my son, Daniel, attended Culpeper Christian School with you)--he talked a lot about you--please know that Matt wished good things for you and your future.Teresa (Fairfax) LaSalle

The Dotson Family lit a candle in honor of Matthew.

Back when Matt was a teenager, before he got his driver's license, he loved to walk to our house and visit. He enjoyed his visits so much, in fact, that when we got home from work, he was sitting on our porch waiting for us. He just hung out with us every evening, talking or watching a little TV, until it was time to go to bed. Matt was always such a nice young man. We will treasure our memories of Matt and we will miss him. - The Dotson Family
