I met Julie about 6 years ago on an online dating site. When after a month or so of talking on the phone, we began a life together. Her beautiful blue eyes and her kind heart had me from the very beginning. Later she would tell me she was absolutely smitten and thought she would never have a life partner until we came together. She did not like living in the apartment and life was difficult dealing with the daily tasks and not having a special someone in her life. We got along well and enjoyed each other's company so I suggested that she come and live with me. Julie enjoyed her life in Boston and we had a great life with Naomi (her cat) and Luke (her dog). She enjoyed the flowers, especially her favorite Lilac flower. I would pick them and put them in a vase for her to enjoy. Julie always wanted a porch swing so we got one and she would sit on it with her big smile. Every Friday, we would have a few drinks and listen to her favorite music Adele and other music of our generation. She would always make sure I was happy and was very happy knowing we were going to grow old together. Her memories of her mother and daughter as well as her family filled her heart with joy. As time went on, Julianne's health began declining. Without dwelling on the details, her tough life experiences were taking their toll. Her departure from this life was swift and painless. Her pain and suffering were now over and my sweet Julie was now in the Heavens. I will miss her greatly and all of my heart went with her. I thank God for her and hope to be with her after my life is over. She was the best soul I have ever had the pleasure to be part of. I will love you Julie till the day after forever.....Jeff Kuykendall
