To walk in God's Wisdom and his perfect will and to mature in spiritual growth, so here we go again { Mom Caudill }, trusting God to see us through a broken heart of a loved one gone on to be with the Lord to recognize this is God's great plan. I know it will hurt today and some time from now, but you have friends and family to lean on who will help guided you through . my fondness memories are the wonderful man of God , father, grandfather he was. How you two stood side by side together in love, healing, praying for one another. He was a man of few words, but full of wisdom. I am proud to have known him and was part of your family. To know we are all still part of Gods family and we shall see him again and all those who have gone to be with the Lord gives me comfort. May every memory shared, every smile and tear and every whispered prayer give you comfort in your time of loss, your love one was special to so many  love you  Barbara J Caudill Lawhon

Psalms 116:15 reads, "Precious in the eyes of the Lord is the death of His Saints." God is deeply touched by your loved ones passing into eternal life. He understands death not only as God, but as the Creator of Life Eternal, which your loved one has entered. The arms of God welcomes His saints home and all of heaven rejoices in their coming home. Pastor Caudill, we send our deepest sympathy to you and your entire family. May the comfort of the Holy Spirit rest on each of you. We are praying for strength and wisdom as you share your heart during the home-going service. We love and respect you so very much, Love and Prayers, Phyllis and Jack Simmons
