This is such devastating news. My grandmother knew him for a long time and had been able to reconnect and talk about life since I got my insurance through the Insurance Marshall. My grandmother & I would always come in and talk to him when I would make payments on my insurance. He was such a kind, gentle soul & always had a smile on his face! May he rest in heavenly peace. My condolences to his family.

Mark and I met as classmates at Rappahannock Community College around 1986-1988 at the Warsaw campus, however, our friendship grew after that. He kept in touch and we visited each other as we both moved to Northern Virginia. Other people came and went, but there came a time when I was attending George Mason U that I became pregnant, and friends and family dropped off like flies. But I will always remember, and be so grateful, because during that whole mess, Mark was supportive, understanding, and loyal. When I had the baby, he drove a long way to bring us gifts, and he was different than most people, as it was clear he sincerely, with a pure heart, loved children and children knew it and loved him back! He continued to check up on us for years and make sure we were okay. Even though life circumstances drifted us apart over the years, I can say now that his unconditional loyalty, generosity, kindness, perseverance, and constant smile are a gift I felt I did not deserve. I will honor him by doing what I know he would want: start taking better care of our health, and don't take it for granted, because it could be gone tomorrow. And if I can achieve making most of the people I encounter, to feel that we are best friends, like Mark did, I will consider this a life well-lived.

I still cannot believe you are gone, you left us way too soon. I have never met any one so kind, caring, compassionate and loving. To say you were one of a kind is an understatement. You had the ability to make everyone feel special just by your day to day acts. You were not just a work relationship to me, you were my dear friend. I will miss you terribly. Fly high Mark, until we meet again. Rest in peace my friend. Lisa Mcalduff

Mark and I had known one another since we were kids. We had swimming races in the family pool. No one could beat him. When his family moved we would still hear through the grapevine what he was up to and how his family was doing. Many years later my family needed someone of his skill set and I knew just who to call. When I met him in his office it was as if the 25 years that had passed never happen. We talked for so long that I had to be reminded why I was there. You would be hard pressed to find someone in this area who hadn't met or knew Mark personally that wouldn't have a kind thing to say about him. I truly believe he was the definition of humanity. You will be missed. Jim Hodges
