One of the most gentle, caring, loving, kind and sweetest women I've ever known left us this week to go to a home that is eternal and what a reunion it must have been to meet the loved ones waiting for her. It was (a few years) between us but I never ever remember us ever having a cross word with one another, not many can say this today. I will always cherish our memories and look forward to the day when I see her and other loved ones. I love you Sissy!!

As much as I will miss you down here, I am happy knowing you are pain free and have the most amazing flower garden up there with the Lord, Granddaddy and your parents.
