The first memory I have of Dominic is when Dan and Kristen told me Kristen was pregnant. What a joyous moment! It was March 13 — the day they moved into their new house. I had been there with the rest of my family for a good part of the afternoon helping to get things a little organized. Kristen was at work and didn't get home until after 5:00. They waited until Kristen got home to tell us the good news. I thought it was so sweet that they waited so they could tell us together. It was one of the most special moments of my life — being told I would be getting my first grandbaby. Another memory I have is when I was walking through a department store a few months ago and found the dinosaur outfit in the attached picture. I was just going to browse the baby department not really intending to buy anything, but this outfit was the first one on a rack and it just jumped out at me so I grabbed it and smiled like crazy because it was the first outfit I would buy for Dominic. What a perfect outfit for a baby boy whose parents had done his nursery in a dinosaur theme. And now, I have fresh memories of all our extended families, longtime and new friends, neighbors, co-workers, bosses and former bosses, the hospital staff who helped Kristen and Dan through this tragic loss, and many others offering up prayers on our behalf, sending us such heartfelt condolences, and even bringing or sending meals to their house. There is so much love surrounding our little baby Dominic. I will carry that love in my heart forever and I will cherish the memories mentioned above and the memories that are still to come. We will grieve the loss of Dominic with all our hearts, but we will also come together in stronger love and we will cherish one another a little more all because of our sweet baby boy — Dominic Joseph Russell. I will be with you one day, Dominic. You will always be my first grandbaby. Love, Brennie
