Patricia Jo Konz

MAR 24, 1964 - AUG 10, 2022

On Wednesday, August 10, Patricia Jo “Patty” Konz, Woodville, VA died at the age of 58.

She was born in Stevens Point, WI. She was one of nine children but quickly made herself seen and heard. She exclaimed her love of food (string cheese, spaghetti, Snaps, Portesi pizza), but also is known for having to sit at the dinner table until she finished her supper.

Patty ventured off early and moved to Virginia where she soon picked up the local accent and fit right in gaining many friends touching their lives forever. She put her whole heart into life and would give someone her last dollar being happy to have done it. After not being able to have her own children she volunteered at a local pregnancy center. She made sure you knew she cared! She had a heart of gold, unfortunately not of steel. She was a passionate member of the New Salem Baptist Church where she was always prepared for Bible study. Devotional readings were part of her daily routine.

Patty could do just about anything she put her mind to; bartending, waitressing, accounting, real estate, retail management, playing piano, gardening, canning. Smiling in the face of adversity. Even if she was feeling down she'd bring you up. She loved animals especially her dogs Bruno and Snickers.

Her work ethic was like no other. She was truly happy to go to work each day! She had a whole family at Walmart who can attest to that.

She was married for many years to Billy Green enjoying the life of hobby farming and Harley bike rides. They always welcomed family to stay with them. Their relationship ended and she met Alan Payne who was amazed at Patty's caring heart and steadfast perseverance.

She will forever be missed by many and never knew truly how great she was.

Oh my goodness, my family and I arrived at Walmart tonight and instant sadness. We didn't know she passed away. We had the privilege of meeting Patty at Target. She was always smiling and ready to assist with anything. We sure will miss her. Praying for her dear family.

My prayers go out to her sisters and brothers. I can see her smiling face and hear her laughter. She loved my hash brown casserole at Christmas. I would give her a hard time for using too much salt. It has been difficult to realize she is gone from earth, but we know she is in heaven with no more pain or suffering.

When I heard Patty passed, I was completely stunned. This is the same woman I have seen running around in Wal-Mart, possessing more energy than the Energizer Bunny! This could not be true, and to my heart's dismay, unfortunately it is. It's so hard to share a "memory" of Patty because there are so many, even in the short time I've known her. I met Patty at church. She was always smiling & her bubbly personality was overflowing to the point of being contagious. She could brighten up the gloomiest of days and make it seem effortless in the process! I'm sure for her it was. She sat in the pew in front of me, since both of us possess the gift of gab, it wasn't long before we became friends. One of the things both of us loved was Polish Cookware (Pottery). I was so excited to finally find someone who loves it as much as I do. She told me of a few places I could find it & about all the sets she has collected over the years. Both of us have a deep love for our fur babies, mine being JoJo & hers being Bruno. We were like any other mother, pulling out our phones, to show each other the treasured pictures we captured of our little ones. Granted, JoJo & Bruno may not be "little" but that didn't stop them from thinking they are, as they curl up on our laps to make themselves comfortable. One of the many things I loved about Patty is she was so real. What you see is exactly what you got & what a treasure you found! She was warm, loving, compassionate, caring, thoughtful, fun & so much more! She would always make time for anyone who needed her, even if it was just to chat. She wasn't judgmental, if anything, she would share her personal experiences to put you at ease. Another memory I have is, her standing in church singing, with her hand raised, eyes closed & swaying as she sang her heart out to God. We always laughed about how both of us "make a joyful noise" and she would nod her head saying, "That's right" smiling brilliantly, laughing & telling me wait til next Sunday! I am truly blessed & thankful, I had the opportunity to know Patty. She was truly an amazing woman & this world has lost such a brilliant light in such a dark world. I miss her dearly & am grateful for the memories she gave me to treasure.
