Leota "Lee" Golon

JUN 21, 1939 - NOV 1, 2025

Leota (Lee) Golon passed away at home on November 1 after a long illness. She is the daughter of the late Lester and Fern Tuttle of Ogden, Iowa. She was born in Ogden, Iowa June 21, 1935, but spent her school years in Delhi, New York.

Lee is survived by three of her five children, Camille Youngblood (Lewis), of Richmond, VA. and their children, Miles and Ava; Sharon Golon of Culpeper and her son, Ben Blakey and Andrew (Stephanie) of Rochelle, VA, and their son, Ryley Golon; daughter-in-law, Lynn Golon of Hiwassee, VA, and her son, Devin, and Lee's grandson, Connor Doggett; siblings, Delores Richardson of Vancouver, WA and Sandy Chadwick of Des Moines, Iowa also survive her.

She was preceded in death by her son, Edward and her daughter, Lorraine; sister, Eunice Southerland and brother, Jerry Tuttle, and grand daughter, Isabella Pearl Golon.

Lee was a beloved Mother and friend known for her work ethic, her courage and the unending love she had in her heart. She was born in Ogdon, Iowa, to a long line of frontier-chasing farming families beginning in Puritan, Massachusetts, moving on to Rhode Island, and finally, on the frontiers of New York state and Iowa.

Lee graduated from Delaware Academy in Delhi, New York in 1953 and, later that year, married Edward James Golon of Hobart, New York. Afterwards, they helped to work the Golon family farm. They soon realized they wanted a farm of their own in an area with a longer growing season. They moved to Culpeper, VA, in 1957 with their first daughter after purchasing a farm in the Raccoon Ford area of Culpeper. There, the rest of their four children were born.

After selling the farm in the 1970s, Lee worked at Aileen, Inc., eventually moving on to IBM for nearly 30 years. However, retirement did not suit her energetic nature; she went on to work for Walmart for another 10 years, to finally retire at the age of 79.
