“ Aunt Mildred, Uncle Jack, Melvin, Donna, Sean's 2 sons and his girlfriend & families,

I want to tell you that we are very sorry to hear about Sean's passing. It has been a very long time since we have seen Sean.

When we lived on Vermont Ave, Sean was a little older than Jim,(my first born) but they would play together. My goodness is has been such a long time ago.

Mildred and Jack, Y'all have been there for Sean from birth and I know he was so very thankful for your love and caring about him. Sean is now your guardian Angel watching over his family and friends.

It isn't easy loosing a loved one, however just hang onto all of the wonderful memories that you have and that will help you. Sean isn't in any hurt or pain now he is in a much better place.

You are in my thoughts and prayers.

Should y'all need anything feel free to call me.

Love,
Wanda (Brown) Mills

“ I had the privilege of having Sean in my life the last couple of years. And what a special privilege it was. I had time to learn him with his huge heart and my love grew more and more for him as we connected in our own way. I had the privilege of Sean being a part of my heart and life for this short time. I called him my buddy. What a guy! My love grew as my heart got bigger for him. This I know for certain... He loved Brooke,Caleb and Cameron and Karma. He was even talking to me about getting another Shepard. Sean became one of my favorite people,and that's a big deal. I'm sorry for your loss Brooke,Cameron,Caleb,mom,Donna,Mildred,Jack ,Danny and family and friends. We had that blessing of knowing and loving Sean!

“ Sean, you knew me when I was born. You were a brother to me by way of Danny. Growing up I wanted to be like my brother and you. You guys were the reason I fell in love with football. I remember when you would walk in our house without knocking and no one batted an eye. You were one of us. You are family. I'll never forget the worst whoopin I took in a video game. Tecmo Bowl..83-0. Yall never let me live that down 30 yrs later. I remember taking rides with my brother to go visit you in Manassas. I remember when I was hanging with you and Danny and I rode home with you and we only had 25c for gas. That always cracks me up to this day. You put me on to Grand Puba and the Ready to Die album. I'm gonna miss u night bro. Rest easy Chele! Dont be fumbling the rock up there either. #26

“ Chele....All I can think of is memories. Since finding out you left us, memories have been playing in my head nonstop. Some I didn't realize were in there. But there they are. And here we are without you now. We met in the summer of 1980. We became instant friends. We been thru alot together. From playing with action figures to playing football in the streets, on fields and at school. The sneaking into gyms to work out. Going to recs and courts throughout Alexandria, some in Manassas and Centerville. The thousands of times we stole Sports section from people's Washington Post and USA Today papers to read up and have plenty to discuss and debate. The times we played video games at your grandma house and played that Kiss album to spook ourselves and laugh. We have argued and fought over the dumbest of things and even a female once. But the love never wavered, it never failed. When I needed a place to crash, you helped get me a room. You were the Godfather to my 2 oldest daughters. I was your best man at your first wedding (sorry I couldn't be there for the informal second one, which I knew you wanted me to be best man at that one too). Answered your calls in this last year and didn't know why...but now I know. You thanked me for that and for the words you needed to hear. Words that you had recently started taking heed to. You started listening. You heard me. When I was on my Cali vacation for 4 years, you answered my calls, wrote me letters and sent me pictures. You helped hold me down. You used to walk in my house and go straight to the fridge and be like, "where the tortillas? Where is the chocolate milk?" My family loved you and you were part of the family. You learned all your Spanish from us. You were so proud that you could speak and understand it. You loved to catch people off guard especially if they were talking crap about you in Spanish. Football Sundays was our thing. For years we had to go at it every football season. During the offseason we talked about prospects and team needs. Football will never be the same. No one is gonna call me Aquaman and laugh anymore. Won't get your random calls at impeccable times. Your loss has cut me very deep. I lost my best friend. I lost my brother. In this past year, you always ended our convos with, " I love you, brother". I found it odd that out of nowhere u started saying that. But now I know why. No more pain my brother. No more ill feelings. No more demons. You are at peace and forever smiling. Til we meet again to talk some more crap....I love you, too, brother. RIP.

Fins up!!

“ Sean Gregory ... where do i start 🙏♂️ you are a brother to me . I remember when i ran away from home call myself being grown & when the real world hit me (a week) i was back at my parents . You was there & i had to share the basement with you ...I have always loved you brother . Situations and circumstances over the years made us reunite. Neverthelessonce present we picked up where we left off & that told me the feeling was mutual & genuine. WHICH I NEVER QUESTIONED . I truly know your passions ' understood you as an individual. When knowledge and understanding is missing comprehension is missing . Please don't judge my brother . Brother please don't judge them. I hate to be short but i also don't want to get 2 deep into it . Fins up (dolphins) RB
